ARMY IN FLANDERS STILL
"SWEARS TERRIBLY."

Corporal Lees Smith, M.P., the junior member for Northampton, is now serving in France. In an interesting letter to a constituent he gives some advice to the older men who are called up. He writes: "I imagine I was as much accustomed to comfort and as little adapted to this life as any one of them, but I have found one thing, that nothing has been so unpleasant or difficult as I expected before I had to do it. Every thing depends upon the spirit in which one takes it all. If a man, although he is elderly, makes up his mind that it is a discipline through which he has to go cheerfully, he will find he can do it. In some ways the elderly man has the advantage over the young ones for if he has less strength of body he ought to have acquired more strength of spirit. I do not say that this is a happy life, because it is not, but the unhappiness does not arise from its hardships, but from the fact that we are all homesick." Long ago someone said "the British were terribly in Flanders," and judging by Corporal Lees Smith's letter there has been no weakening in expression with the efflux of time. "I am afraid that those who are soon to be called up will have a rude shock at the language of the Army," he writes. "It is no use beating about the bush; the volume and virulence of the swearing, at any rate out here, are simply appalling. There is so much of it that it ceases to mean anything. Men out here introduce an oath or two into each sentence merely by force of habit, and without intending to convey any meaning whatever. The habit is very infectious. One of my fellow corporals, who in private life is quite a weighty and dignified headmaster of a large school, told me yesterday that he found it very difficult to avoid catching the habit, and was, in fact, succumbing to it. The army at present is made up chiefly of quite young men, very impressionable, to have good or bad, who, without any malice, pick up without thinking the language which they find around them. I hope the older men who are coming in will retain the civilised language of civilian life."

WHO'S WHO IN JAPAN

EDITED AND PUBLISHED BY S. KURIHARA.

The first (1913) edition is already issued. BIOGRAPHIES of over 6,000 people who are well-known in society and of several hundred foreigners associated with Japan appear in the book. Quite new materials and accurate sketches, both being utterly free from prejudices.

Many portraits are inserted. The book contains over 1,400 pages.

The price is yen 6 (12/-) or $3 per copy. Orders for the book should be accompanied by payment.

Subscribers for the second annual edition of 'Who's Who in Japan' will be allowed a reduction of one yen.

The registered postage is 13 sen, to Korea and China 40 sen and to Europe & America 70 sen or 35 cents.

It is a GOOD ADVERTISING MEDIUM.

Many influential papers of the world noticed this work in the highest terms.

For example, The Daily Mail says—

"Yet another 'Who's Who' and this time from Japan! The reader is apt at first to regard it as a curiosity, as a sign that the 'East' has now become Western practically almost to the last detail. But 'Who's Who in Japan' is far more than a curiosity; it is a very sound and useful reference book. It is printed in English and contains true biographies of the most prominent men in Japan."

Mr. Kurahara is a skilful editor and has done his work well.

HONOURS FOR BOMB THROWERS.

DEEDS OF QUIET HEROISM. BEHIND THE LINES.

A list of awards of the Albert Medal for gallantry in saving life while serving in France are announced in a recent "Gazette."

To Lance-Corporal George Alderson, 10th Durban L.I., whose heroism cost him his life, the medal of the First Class was awarded.

Alderson and two comrades were (says the official record) moving some bombs into a room in a farmhouse, where they were to be stored. One of the bombs fell to the door. Alderson, knowing that it would explode in four seconds, and that to throw it out of the window would endanger the men who were outside, picked it up and got out of the door as the bomb exploded, blowing off his hand and inflicting other injuries from which he shortly died.

By his prompt action he probably saved the lives of the three men who were in the room with him, and by his presence of mind in not throwing it out of the window he certainly saved the lives of those standing outside.

This act was the more meritorious as Alderson was fully aware of the deadly nature of the bomb and the danger to himself that his act involved.

HANDLING LIVE GRENADES.
Second Lieut. Thomas B. Mackay, 12th K.R.L.C., receives the medal of the First Class for the following act of bravery—On October 15, 1915, Second Lieutenant Mackay was in charge of a party under instruction in throwing live grenades. A man who was throwing a grenade with a patent Noble lighter became nervous when the lighter went off and dropped the grenade at his feet. Mackay at once picked up the grenade and threw it out of the trench. There were four men in this section of the trench.

On December 4, 1915, while Mackay was in charge of a party under instruction in throwing live grenades, a man pulled the pin from a grenade and threw the grenade straight into the parapet. Mackay at once picked up the grenade and threw it over the parapet. There were four men in the throwing pit at the time.

On December 8, Mackay was in charge of a party under instruction in throwing live grenades from a catapult. A live grenade was placed in the pocket of the catapult, the fuse was lighted, and the lever released. The grenade for some reason was not thrown by the catapult, and fell out of the pocket on to the ground. Mackay, who was standing on the other side of the catapult to that on which the grenade lay, rushed at the grenade, seized it, and threw it away. The fuse was a short five-second fuse, and the grenade exploded on hitting the ground 15 yards away. There were eight men near the catapult at the time, and ten others not far away.

SAVED A BOXES STORM.
Four medals are awarded as follows—
First Class: Major Cyril L. N. Newall.
2nd: Gurkha Rifles (attached B. Flying Corps).
Second Class: Corporal Henry Heurne, B. Flying Corps; First Class: Air Mechanic, Harris B. Harwood, B. Flying Corps, and Second Class: Air Mechanic Alfred E. Simms, B. Flying Corps. The exploits for which these awards are given is officially described as under—On January 3, 1916, at about 3 p.m., a fire broke out inside a large bomb store belonging to the Royal Flying Corps, which contained nearly 2,000 high explosive bombs, some of which had very large charges, and a number of incendiary bombs which were burning freely. Major Newall at once took all necessary precautions, and then, assisted by Air Mechanic Simms, poured water into the shed through a hole made by the flames. He sent for the key of the store, and with Corporal Heurne, Harwood and Simms entered the building and succeeded in putting out the flames. The wooden cases containing the bombs were burnt, and some of them were charred to a cinder.

GROUPE FOR LIVE GRENADES.
Second Lieut. William M. Morgan, 15th Royal Welsh Fusiliers, is awarded the medal of the second class for the following act—On February 14, 1916, during grenade instruction in a trench, a man let fall a grenade, which sank in the mud, so that only the handle from the burning fuse could be seen. Lieutenant Morgan, who was outside the danger zone, at once sprang forward and groped in the mud for the grenade. The difficulty of finding it added greatly to the danger. He picked up the grenade and threw it over the parapet just in time, thereby saving several men from death or serious injury. Military decorations could not be awarded in any of the above cases, as the acts of gallantry were not performed in the face of the enemy.

FINANCE OF THE FUTURE.
THE DAY OF CONSOLS IS OVER.

Professor H. S. Foxwell, speaking of financial problems of the war, at the Royal Institution, said that he thought that now the people had got used to it there was much to be said in favour of retaining our paper money after the war.

In the task of trying to balance production and consumption Germany and Austria had put their populations upon rationing. He believed that to some extent high prices had been deliberately brought about in these countries with a view to enforcing economy.

The day of Consols was over; obviously a security which was liable to a depreciation of 50 per cent. in 20 years was not a very eligible one from the bankers' point of view. In future we should have terminable loans over comparatively small periods.

He advocated a system of continuous borrowing as against the raising of large loans, which were largely artificial and often illusory. He would like to see our loans take a similar position to Renten in France, in which the whole nation was interested. He could not understand why we had not made some attempt to tap the large hoards of money in India.

THE WAR.

LATEST TELEGRAMS.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)

BRITISH PROGRESS.

NEWS "MOST FAVOURABLE SINCE PUSH BEGAN."BRITISH BREAK INTO ENEMY'S SECOND LINE.

London, July 14.

Reuter's Correspondent at the Press Camp says:The latest reports are that we have captured the villages of Longueval and Bazentin-le-Grand, and cleared Trone's Wood of the enemy.

The weather is favourable.

LATER.

Reuter's Correspondent at Hagu-quarters says later reports confirm the success of this morning's attack.
We have suffered but small losses.The enemy is surrendering freely.
A regimental commander and his staff are among the captives.Up to nine o'clock this morning, in addition to the villages previously mentioned we captured Bazentin-le-Petit which was taken by storm.Fighting is proceeding around Ovillers, practically the whole of the place being in our hands.Several counter-attacks on our newly won positions have been repulsed.We are now consolidating our gains. The troops are in high spirits.

LATER.

The latest news from the British front is the most favourable since the push began. Longueval, just north of Trone's Wood, is more than six miles northwest of Albert and nearly five miles east of our original line.Bazentin-le-Grand is two miles east of Longueval, while Bazentin-le-Petit which Reuter's Correspondent at Headquarters now gives as captured, is a mile further north and nearer Bapaume.The German position at Pozieres, a mile and a half north of Capitalmaison, is most critical owing to our recent successes. Pozieres lies athwart the main road from Albert to Bapaume.The possession of Longueval brings our advance in this sector into line with the French at Hardecourt.

GENERAL HAIG'S REPORTS.

London, July 14.

General Sir Douglas Haig reports that there was reciprocal artillery activity throughout yesterday.As a result of sharp infantry fighting we not merely maintained our pressure but advanced our line at various points.We captured some German howitzers in one sector with ammunition.
These will be used against the enemy.

LATER.

General Sir Douglas Haig reports that at dawn today we attacked the enemy's second line of defence and broke in the front four miles. We captured several strongly defended localities.

Heavy fighting continues.

The period July 11 and 12 was mainly spent in bombarding the enemy's formidable second positions and other preparation for a further advance.The assault was launched at 8.25 this morning after an intensive bombardment. The enemy was driven out of his trenches along the whole front, and in the attack we took many prisoners.We also relieved in Trone's Wood a party of the Royal West Kents who had been separated from their comrades in the recent fighting and were surrounded by the Germans. They gallantly held out at the northern end of the wood for forty-eight hours.The whole village of Bazentin-le-Petit remained in our hands after the Germans had been driven out this afternoon.

THE FRENCH FRONT.

Paris, July 14.

A communiqué says that artillery has been very active at Souville.
Two attempted enemy attacks north of the Aisne were immediately stopped by machine gun fire.There has been nothing important elsewhere.

Paris, July 14.

A communiqué says:—There is nothing to report except a somewhat lively bombardment in the Souville sector on the right of the Meuse.

THE GERMAN LOSSES.

Paris, July 14.

It is stated that the Germans lost 12,000 in their counter-attacks at Con-talmaison. This shows the importance they attached to the position.KITCHENER'S CONSORTS SURPRISE THE ENEMY.A German prisoner who was formerly a waiter in London said the German officers told them that the British "Kitchener Consorts" knew nothing of soldiering and would throw down their rifles directly they came to close quarters. The Germans consequently expected a walk-over; but "it was otherwise."RUSSIANS HURLING BACK THE TURKS.

PETROGRAD, July 14.

A communiqué states:—
The Turks have been hurled back from the heights of Eniburt and are now retreating.Our offensive west of Mamakhatun is progressing successfully. A series of heights were occupied after a desperate night battle.An attempted Turkish offensive southeast of Mamakhatun has been repulsed.
We are advancing.THE FRENCH NATIONAL FETE.

BRITISH PARTICIPATION.

London, July 14.

Troops of the Allies participated in the impressive national celebrations at Paris.The British detachment consisted of the Guards, Highlanders, South Africans, Anzacs, Canadians and Indians, led by a Band of Pipes from the Royal Scots. They aroused the wildest enthusiasm.INTERESTING EXCHANGE OF MESSAGES.General Sir Douglas Haig, on the occasion of the French National celebration, telegraphed to President Poincare as follows:"The British Army, fighting by the side of the brave French, expresses admiration of the French Army and unshakable confidence in the realisation of our common hopes."President Poincare replied heartily reciprocating and saying that the ovation of the Allied troops in Paris that day was sufficient proof of public sentiment.President Poincare in a message to Great Britain on the occasion of the National Fete says:"The French people unboundedly admire the deeds of Britain's glorious Navy and the development of the Empire's mighty resources.""France sends greetings of everlasting brotherhood to Britain and her Dominions Overseas."

BIG FRENCH LOAN IN AMERICA.

New York, July 14.

It is officially announced that a hundred million dollar French loan has been successfully negotiated here.

ALLIES' FINANCIAL CONFERENCE.

London, July 14.

An important conference of the Representatives of the Allies is being held in London on financial matters.

ALLIES' MUNITION CONFERENCE.

London, July 14.

It is officially announced that the Allies' Munition Conference reviewed the whole programme of the Russian requirements at a four hours' sitting and arrived at "satisfactory" conclusions.
Subsequently they considered the Italian needs.THE PROSPECT OF VICTORY.BRITISH WAR SECRETARY ON THE SITUATION.

London, July 14.

Mr. Lloyd George, Secretary of State for War, presiding at a conference at the War Office, attended by representatives of France, Russia and Italy, emphasised the considerable change in the fortunes of the Allies that had taken place since the last conference and paid tribute to the splendid achievements of the Allies. He declared that the combined offensive, east and west, due to the vast output of munitions, had deprived the enemy of the initiative.
"We have crossed the watershed," he said, "and now victory is beginning to flow in our direction."

AUSTRIA AND PEACE.

OPINION IN RUSSIAN CIRCLES.

London, July 14.

The Morning Post Correspondent in Petrograd says the departure of the Council of Ministers for the Imperial Headquarters is much commented upon.
There is a strong feeling in influential quarters that when Austria again issues feelings for a separate peace they should be welcomed, and by the Allies also, and that the time has come for the Allies to agree upon a basis of future peace terms.

RUMANIA'S INTENTIONS.

AUSTRIANS AND GERMANS
PERTURBED.

London, July 14.

A Bukarest telegram says the Austrians and Germans are very perturbed over the Allied offensive and are endeavouring to discover Rumania's intentions.
Opinion is strengthening that the interests of Rumania demand speedy entry into action. The Press is optimistic of the prospects of the Allies.PRESIDENT POINCARÉ ON THE WAR.

Paris, July 14.

President Poincaré, when distributing diplomas and honours to relatives of officers and men killed in the war, made a speech in which he said that Frenchmen had revealed themselves as capable of frustrating the plans of predatory Powers. He eulogised the Allies and especially the British whose splendid young armies had sprung from the ground. "The question is," he said, "to be or not to be under the German heel? Therefore we shall not weaken."

THE DUTCH AND THE WAR.

THE HAGUE, July 14.

The Chamber has adopted a Bill extending the Landsturm. The Minister for War said the more the idea of peace was penetrating the belligerents the more careful must the Dutch be to defeat attempts at their integrity.FIRE IN A ROYAL FOREST IN GREECE.

KING'S CHATEAU DESTROYED.

London, July 14.

Reuter's Athens correspondent telegraphs that the Forest of Tatoi was burning for several hours. The flames spread to the Royal chateau, which together with the adjoining barracks, was destroyed.Several deaths, including officers, are reported.MR. REDMOND AND THE GOVERN-MENT'S IRISH PROPOSAL.

London, July 14.

Mr. Redmond, replying to Lord Lansdowne's statement yesterday, says the matter can only be cleared by the production of the Government's Amending Bill. He is lother to believe that the Cabinet favours naked coercion.

EARLIER TELEGRAMS.

"BATTLE OF THE WOODS."

London, July 14.

The chief characteristic of the fighting at Mametz Wood and Contalmaison was the determined effort of the British to take and hold a number of copes and small forests between the first and second German lines; hence the engagements have been called the "Battle of the Woods." Of these Trone's Wood constantly changed hands. It was christened by the Germans "Hell-hole Wood." It was originally a dense copse, but has been so frequently shelled that cover is now impossible. The Germans when the original possessors, never fortified it, thus it was easy to concentrate an annihilating shellfire on its occupants. But the wood no longer hinders the development of the British advance.

IN MESOPOTAMIA.

MINOR ENCOUNTERS.

London, July 13.

It is officially announced that reports from Mesopotamia show there have been minor encounters, in which we punished brigands.
Enemy artillery and aircraft have ineffectually bombarded our lines at Sannaiyat.

OUTPUT OF MUNITIONS.

SATISFACTORY STATEMENT BY THE BRITISH WAR
MINISTER.

London, July 14.

Mr. Lloyd George, in a speech, described the efforts of the Allies to increase the output of munitions. The work of supplying the Navy occupies a million men, but in addition Great Britain had evolved out of nothing arsenals to supply the huge Army. Most of the factories completed were turning out hundreds of guns and heavy guns were being made at a great rate. The new factories had not yet attained one-tenth of their full capacity, but the output was increasing daily. The main difficulties had been solved, and our supplies in a short time would be overwhelming.Mr. Lloyd George concluded by urging a close examination of the requirements of the various Armies, as with mutual help victory anywhere would be victory everywhere.

THE IRISH QUESTION.

LORD LANSDOWNE DEFENDS HIS SPEECH.

London, July 13.

Lord Lansdowne, in reply to Mr.
Redmond's manifesto, says that he believes that by Lord Lansdowne represented the views of the Government in the statement which he made.LABOUR BANQUET TO OVERSEAS REPRESENTATIVES.

London, July 13.

The Labour Members of Parliament gave a banquet in honour of the representatives of the Dominions, over which Mr. Henderson, Minister of Education, presided.

FRENCH LOAN IN U.S.A.

New York, July 13.

A statement has been issued by Messrs Morgan & Co. and Messrs Brown & Co. regarding the French loan. It says that a corporation will be formed, to be known as the American Foreign Securities Company, which will issue $95,000,000 for three years at 8 per cent. The notes will be secured on the basis of a 20 per cent. margin by the obligations of the Governments of Argentina, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Switzerland, Holland, Uruguay, Egypt, Brazil, Spain, the Province of Quebec, shares in the Suez Canal Company, and bonds and shares in American corporations. It is expected that the notes will be quoted on the New York Stock Exchange.The Royal Dutch Petroleum Co. proposes to distribute for 1915 a dividend of 49 per cent, of which an interim dividend of 16 per cent has already been paid.A postcard from a prisoner of war in Germany, which has been received at Warwick, was addressed to "Mr. W. E. R.
Starring, c/o Mr. —" the father of the man. The German censor evidently thought the pathetic plea was the name of an Englishman, and passed it.The late Lord Kitchener had an extraordinarily adventurous career. Before the South African war he had fought in eight engagements, been twice shot at by Bedouins, all but murdered in Palestine, narrowly escaped being hanged as a spy, and been badly wounded in the face by a bullet.

the stomach or intestinal pains.

Diarrhoea Remedy never fails to relieve the most severe cases. Let it to-day. There will be no time to regret for it. It is ists and Storekeepers.

ment, but in the stands provided

THE VERDUN STRUGGLE.

GERMAN SOLDIERS' VIEWS ON THE FIGHT.Mr. H. Warner Allen, special representative of the British Press with the French Armies, writes from Paris on May 30:—The following extracts from letters written by German soldiers before Verdun, and taken from their pockets when the writers were captured by the French, provide an account of the battle from the German point of view.From a letter written by Lieutenant Ellingen, of the 8th Reserve Infantry Regiment, and intended for despatch to another Lieutenant, belonging to the 20th Reserve Regiment:— April 3.—You can form some idea of our position from the fact that all our officers have been renewed. The losses of the regiment are high, for its position on the plateau of Vaux is simply "disgusting." Our battalions relieve one another, but our positions when in reserve or resting receive, with few exceptions, as many shells as the first line.From a letter, dated April 11, written by a private soldier named Schroeder, of the 50th Infantry Regiment:—We are absolutely in a hell hole here.
The artillery fire night and day. I never imagined it would be like this. Yesterday a shell fell quite near the church and killed three men and wounded nine others. You should have seen us run.
If only this wretched war would come to an end. No reasonable man can justify such a butchery of men.
We are at present to the north-east of Verdun in a position that is distinctly critical. This morning they have been smoking us out with asphyxiating shell and other diabolical inventions.
It is all Kultur. Though we have not been long in the firing line we have all had enough of it, and are longing for peace. We should like to send to the front all these gentlemen who caused the war and who profit from it. If we had done this we should have had peace long ago.From a letter written by a soldier named Schmela, of the 96th Reserve Regiment, dated April 15:—You can't imagine how tired we are of life sometimes. We are made to toil there in every possible way. There is no rest until one falls on his nose in the mud. How absurd what they write in the newspapers seems. Our beloved soldiers if you knew what they have to suffer, say nothing of having their lives worried out of them, they would not serve us up such lies. Yesterday the weather was still abominable, and we were again wet to the bone. Then we were asked why we were not singing as in all our misery we had to sing

MORE CASUALTIES, MORE COFFEE.

A postcard written by a soldier named Ketisch, of the 3rd Grenadier Regiment of Landsturm, to his son, Fritz, dated April 30:—Since Good Friday I have been before Verdun. It is terrible. We have been ready had many casualties. We are in holes on the slope of a mountain, and we scarcely dare put our noses out. The bombardment is incessant; sometimes it is too awful for words. It seems as if the mountain was collapsing. If I escape I shall remember this Easter. Our kitchens are two hours' walk in the rear.
For Easter we had nothing to eat or drink except a quarter of a pint of coffee.
There is not a drop of water here, but now we get a little more coffee, as our number is rapidly diminishing. From time to time one of us runs to the kitchens with our bottles.Following are extracts from letters found on prisoners, which had been received from friends in Germany.
Ittingen, March 2.—We suppose that you are with the rest at Verdun. Over there it is death for everyone. There seems to be no way of getting through.
The French are not Russians, and their artillery cannot be silenced. Nobody believes any longer what is written in the newspapers. To begin with, a great fuss was made about magnificent successes, but suddenly everything became quiet. A few noisy people believed that Verdun would fall in a few days. It would be all right to march on Paris if the French artillery did not exist and if there were no Frenchmen between us and the capital.Dated May 2.—I am convinced that the Germans will not get through, for they are mistaken as to the French, and particularly as to their artillery. Every soldier who comes back says the French artillery is very superior to ours. Things are not going so easily as in Galicia.A journalist relates that, when asked for an interview, Lord Kitchener briefly replied: "I have never given an interview in his life, and had no intention of doing so." The interviewer, by the way of relieving the situation, asked him for his autograph, saying that it would do for the "Laying of a Veil." He gave away and made his own autograph worth having, said Lord Kitchener.HARPER'S
